JOHN WILLIAMSON 'WINDING BACK' CELEBRATING 50 YEARS

Presented by Artist Network

Thursday February 18 at 8pm

When John Williamson wandered into Richmond's GTV9 studios in 1970 with a guitar under his arm, little did the Mallee farmer realise he'd make a 50+-year career out of singing and performing. His performance of 'Old Man Emu', the first song John had ever written, on Channel Nine's popular New Faces program resulted in a number one single and a record deal. It also marked the appearance of a striking new talent: an unofficial custodian of Australian stories. Perhaps John's greatest legacy is making Australians proud of their country and of who they are. So, don't miss him, True Blue himself, in your town or city for what could be the final time.

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM LIVESTREAM - ARTS ON SCREEN

Sunday February 28 at 4.30pm

Don't miss the opportunity to watch the Adelaide Festival's centrepiece opera, live as it's performed in the Festival Theatre in Adelaide, from the comfort of your local theatre.
Benjamin Britten's musical transformation of Shakespeare's most loved comedy is something of a miracle: apart from a single short sentence, every word is that of England's finest poet; every fibre and comic nuance of the play is preserved. And while a lesser composer might have merely adorned a masterpiece, he created a new one all its own: with its graceful haunting melodies, iridescent orchestration, headily perfumed harmony, and filigree-like vocal textures – there's nothing in the repertoire like it.
